
DUTCH TO DISPLACE FOREIGN MADE GOODS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Utrecht, Netherlands, April 29.—Dutch traders seeking fresh means to supply their home needs from home sources and Dutch manufacturers anxious to displace foreign made goods organized the first Dutch national fair now in progress at Utrecht.

This first national attempt to bring manufacturer and wholesale dealer in touch with each other has been a success and its repetition next year seems assured. All exhibits had to be of Dutch manufacture. The results were highly creditable to Dutch enterprise.

The fair discloses the fact that Holland is making a bold bid for industrial independence. In the last eighteen months 200 new factories have been built in this country, not devoted, as elsewhere, to war work, but raised in obedience to natural economic demands.

Germany's chemical industries will have to look to their laurels, for Holland's new factories are able to produce their own coal tar products, synthetic dyes, synthetic perfumes, saccharine and tannin.

Pepys and Matrimony

That rare old gossip, Samuel Pepys, had his own views on matrimony, as the following extract from his diary shows:

"Christmas day (1695)—To church in the morning, and there saw a wedding in the church, which I have not seen many a day, and the young people so merry with one another, and strange to see what delight we married people have to see these poor fools decoyed into our condition, every man and woman gazing and smiling at them."

Something Different.

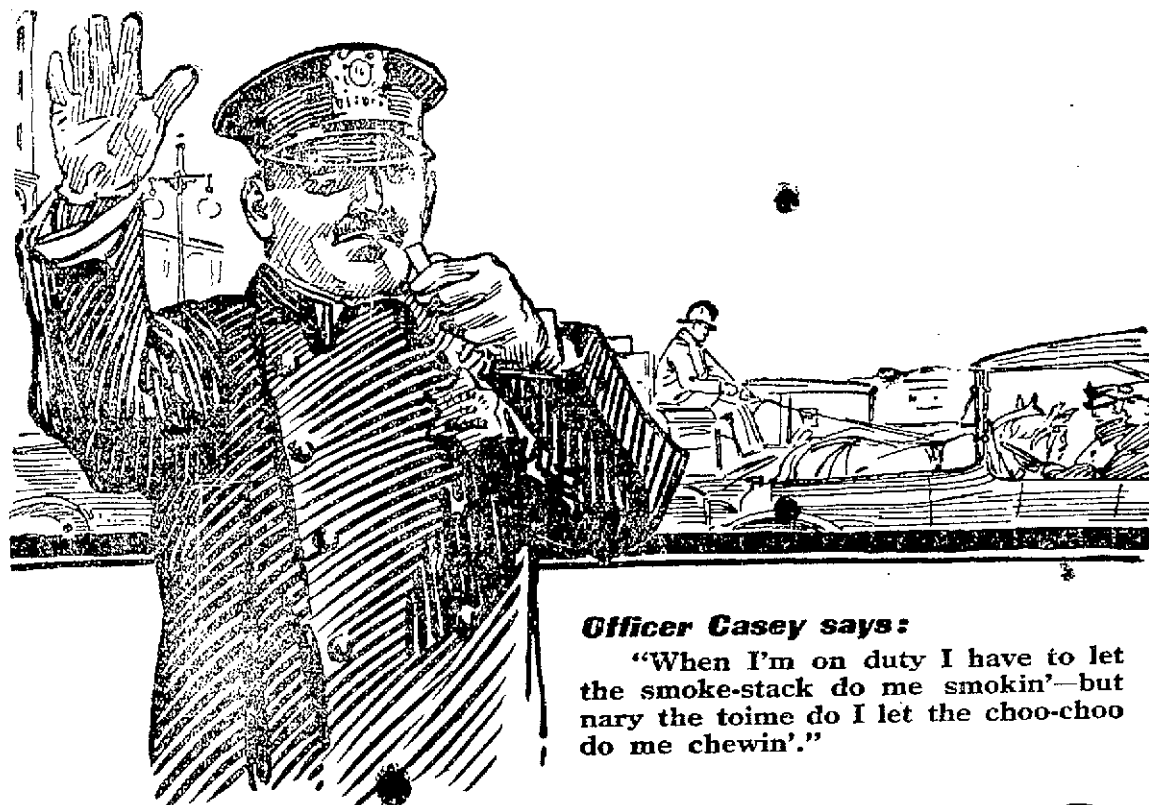

"Mother," said little Evelyn, "may I go out and play with the other children now?"

"You may play with the little girls, sweetheart, but not with the boys. The little boys are too rough."

"But, mother," rejoined the little miss, "if I find a nice, smooth little boy, can I play with him?"—New York Times.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Rain, southeast rain or snow and somewhat colder north and west portions tonight. Tuesday cloudy, continued cold, fresh to strong northeast shifting to northwest winds.

NOBLENESS OBLIGE.

Has it occurred to the casual reader that the United States did not ask that the United States help win armed forces in Europe to help win the great war of ages, and France did? Why England sent a diplomat and statesman, at the head of its delegation, and France a blunt soldier like Joffre? If not, turn back in the pages of your history, or ask your son or daughter to tell you the part France played in the great war of independence a hundred and forty years ago, and now, without aid and encouragement, we might still be vassals of a foreign power. It is history repeating itself and "Nobleless Oblige" comes to this country, as did La Fayette, almost a century and a half ago, to offer his aid and sword to this nation in preparing for a titanic struggle. Now, as then, France and America are allies, and it is proper and just that the United States should reciprocate the aid and assistance given so long ago to this nation in their life and death struggle. If necessary, we can send a legion across the water to be drilled for necessities, and perhaps take an active part in the fighting. This is not a war of our making, but one that the United States has entered into in the cause of humanity and civilization, and honor to our foreign visitors and their mission, may it be successful. In the words of the army, "How?"

ROOSEVELT'S TALK.

Roosevelt visited Chicago, Saturday, and delivered two talks. No Caesar ever returning to Rome with the captives of a successful campaign chained to his chariot, was given a more regal reception than was this former president. "Sagacious Teddy," his two addresses were full of pithy remarks, snappy sentences, brimming to the top of the cup with loyalty and expressing a sentiment and opinion that the citizens of the United States are delighted to hear in plain English. He did not become maudlin in his sentiment or his patriotism, but he stirred his hearers with the spirit of loyalty as perhaps no other speaker in our hemisphere could have done. Many persons may have different ideas, politically, from our ex-president, but when it comes to expressions of loyalty he puts into the language of the people the thought that permeates the minds of all who are true and loyal to the flag and the government. It is to be hoped he will lead that foreign legion to the shores of France as La Fayette did, the French in the days of this nation's direct need.

CHICAGO'S PLIGHT.

It would appear that Chicago had suffered itself with a veritable "Old Man of the Sea" in the person of Mayor Thompson. If "Big Bill" thinks he has added anything to the reputation of the Illinois metropolis he should discontinue his kind of the idea unless he has an indisputable commodity. No wonder Philadelphia views asking if Thompson has been placed under arrest by federal officers for disloyalty? It is unfortunate for Chicago that it has such a man as its head of the city government at this time. Perhaps he has attended some of the sessions of the Whomps Gardens on the north side and heard the prominent citizens denounce Wilson and the federal government and become influenced by their actions, seeing they are unopposed. At best the great northwest that has looked to Chicago as the leader in thought feels the disgrace as keenly as do the citizens of the "Windy City."

SENATE BILL SIXTY-SIX.

It is to be hoped that Senate Bill No. 66 will be passed. It gives the voters an opportunity to elect delegates to a state convention who will make the platform of their respective political parties before the primary election of candidates in September. This means that the people designate their thoughts for the political platform upon which the candidate later selected must stand and not wait until the candidates are nominated and then let them state that their platform is to the public to swallow or not as they see fit. It does not do away with the primary law, but it removes one of the objectionable features and gives the average citizen the right to express his opinion even though not a candidate for office. It should pass and it is to be hoped Rock county's representative in the state senate will vote for it and the two representatives in the assembly will follow suit. It is a useful change if we must still have that primary race enacted in future elections.

TREND OF PROHIBITION.

There is no question but the millions of bushels of grains that are now finding their way into the breweries and distilleries might be converted into food products, and the friends of absolute prohibition are not losing a minute in impressing the thought upon congress and the federal government. Safe was that by this time they are alive to the thought of the country on this important question and will act accordingly. Roosevelt, in his address in Chicago, brought out the fact he favored restriction of the grain supplied to the liquor manufacturers. The senate also placed a prohibition clause as to its soldiers in the draft bill. Already liquor has been barred from the navy so we may expect radical legislation on this important question shortly.

Company M of Janesville, Captain Caldwell commanding, made quite an impression at the Edgerton loyalty demonstration last Friday. In fact, they drilled so well and the members of the local company behaved like men and gentlemen, that it is a gratification to the entire county to have such a command within its county boundaries. Company L of Beloit is the other Rock county military unit that deserves credit and consideration, and between the two there is no need for any young man to enlist elsewhere for accurate military training and instruction that may lead to a commission in the great army to be formed.

The Beloit adherent of Assemblyman Ross made much about the various measures he has voted for in the present session of the legislature, but fell to comment on the fact he was one of the nine who voted against the highway bill in the assembly. In fact, Rosa has been on the wrong side of almost every "right" bill in the legislature and on the right side of the "right" bills so seldom his vote is not even considered essential.

Now let congress pass that universal military training measure and all the hard things that have been said about it will be forgotten in the praise of the preparedness campaign they are starting. This thought will have more lives than any other idea that has been taken up in years.

The mayor has issued his clean-up day proclamation and so start in and be ready to follow instructions. It is time that may be ushered in with clean streets, clean backyards and no unsightly rubbish piles on vacant property. In fact, all vacant property ought to be in gardens any way.

The state highway bill has passed both houses of the legislature and will soon become a law. The success of this measure is due to Senator L. E. Cunningham, who is one of the liveliest advocates of good roads the state has had in its legislative bodies for many years past.

This county board of defense is bound to bring results in view of the fact that the entire county is interested in its success and not any one parcel of individuals. Concerted action can bring forth crops, for in unity there is strength.

The state senate can not afford to fail to pass that liquor referendum measure. They must give the people of the state an opportunity to vote on this question and not judge it merely from the standpoint of personal feelings.

It is a safe bet that the legislature will be all through its work long before July 1 when the recent election in Madison put the saloons out of business.

"Swat the fly." "Plant the garden." "Keep the yard clean." "Make Janesville the Spotless City." "Get Busy." Make these your slogans for the next two weeks and the watch results.

Watching your hat and coat isn't a game or pastime and then again it isn't an occupation or visible means of support. It is hard to say just what it is.
But it keeps you busy through the lunch hour. You go in and hang up your hat and coat and then sit down to watch it. If you are going to eat soup it doesn't make much difference where you hang your coat and hat, because while eating soup you can't talk to anyone and so you have plenty of time to watch your hat and coat. If you are obliged to hang your coat and hat behind you, then you have to turn around to look real often you had better eat soup. Between spoonfuls of soup it is always easier to turn the head quickly than it is between mouthfuls of, say, creamed potatoes.
The secret of this is found in the effect of not soup on the chords of the neck. They are lived up and the head is turned more briskly. You may be interested in trying this. With not soup and creamed potatoes. If more people understood these

THE GUGGLESNACK MYSTERY.

"We're not accustomed to being robbed," complained Darius Gugglesnack, of D. Gugglesnack and Bros., dealers in delicatessen and catables.

"This is the first robbery that has occurred in our twenty years of delicatessen."

"What a coincidence," murmured Sherlock Bones, the great detective.

"Now please run over the delicatessen—or, to use the Latin ending, delicatessen—that were stolen."

"Well, one dozen agate-brand jelly rolls."

"Like these?" interrupted the great detective. And he took a large bite out of the mathematical center of a jelly roll and put two other rolls in to the lady Macintosh bag.

"And six tins of Ludolph's."

"Like these?" And the great detective dropped eight forty-cent tins of imported Ludolph's after the jelly rolls.

"And," went on D. Gugglesnack apprehensively, "a chock of hockplates—I mean a box of chocolates."

"We beg your pardon, but we have not these," said the great detective, dropping eleven boxes of Smith and Wesson non-refillable chocolates after the jelly rolls and Ludolph's.

D. Gugglesnack held a hasty conference with his brother W. behind a pyramid of eggplant catup, after which he said to the great detective, "We beg your pardon, but we have not these," said the great detective, dropping eleven boxes of Smith and Wesson non-refillable chocolates after the jelly rolls and Ludolph's.

"Which an insupportable smile, the great detective showed his bag under his arm and withdrew.

POSTPONE ACTION ON SCOUT COMMISSIONER

Plan to Employ Man Year Round to Look After Local Organization Put Off Until Fall.

Some few weeks ago the Boy Scout council and other citizens met to discuss the advisability of broadening the scope of the scout work in Janesville. Mr. J. C. Elson of Madison gave some interesting statistics and advice and the president of the council was directed to appoint a ways and means committee to canvass the situation more closely with reference to the employment of a paid executive to devote his time to the boys of scout age, twelve to sixteen years, in the city. That committee held its meeting last Friday evening and because of the present strenuous times it was thought best to postpone further action until September 1st. The committee was impressed with the need for making better future citizens out of the boys through the medium of the Boy Scouts and the postponement of the plan is to be but temporary, probably until early fall. Meanwhile the splendid work of the scout masters and commissioners, which represents about 110 active scouts, will continue among the boys.

CHANCE TO BECOME OFFICERS IS OPEN TO ALL VOLUNTEERS

Captain Caldwell Points Out Advantage of Enlisting Now Rather Than Waiting for Draft.

Pointing out that the vast army to be raised by selective conscription will be supplied with officers largely from the men in the national guard, Captain E. N. Caldwell of Company M today urged the advantage which young men would have who enlisted for service now. They will get several months' additional training before the draft army is called into existence and with the right amount of energy and application to business many of the men who volunteer now may be picked for officers in the new army. Captain Caldwell has the following to say on the matter:

"The selective draft army bill appears certain of passage in congress. It is said that the backbone of any military organization is its non-commissioned force."

It is suggested by the general staff that men who have volunteered into the service, either as regulars or as guardsmen, will be in line to take off positions in the large army to be raised.

Men who now volunteer will if at all competent be selected for a commission in the 2,000,000 man army mission in the selective draft.

An almost immediate position as an officer in the army opens up for a man—opportunities not otherwise possible.

Rock county would be honored by her young men holding official positions, and young men should be keen for the opportunity to serve on a larger war than as a private. Keen for the honor that should come to them, to their families and to Rock county. Young men should join now before there is a draft. See me at the military office at once, and get in as a volunteer."

E. N. Caldwell,
Capt., 1st Wis. Inf.,
Commanding Co. M.

CITY WILL SLASH STREET SCHEDULE; H. C. OF L. REASON

Tentative Plans Are to Postpone for Year Only That Portion Deemed Absolutely Necessary at Once.

Cognizant of the general abnormal condition prevalent at the present time it is certain that the city administration will lay off a considerable portion of the big schedule of street improvements planned for this year. To just what extent this will be carried out is to be determined this afternoon by the board of public works. Throughout Friday and Saturday the board and the city commission will be busy considering the bids submitted by contractors for the large amount of street improvements planned last fall to be done this season.

The gist of these sessions makes it appear that the board will recommend to the commission that only that which is deemed absolutely necessary be done this year. This forecast comes from the fact that the board was anything but satisfied with the bids submitted for these streets to be paved with brick. On the other hand it is apparent that the greater share of the work will be of the asphalt pavement type. Savings are also being made by the board in the matter of the type of pavement, exclusive of where brick is deemed most desirable and recognizing the availability to accept the low contracts it is apparent that several of the planned stretches of street will be made this year.

Possible Pavements. It seems that Franklin street, from Pleasant to Galena; North Bluff street, from North First to Elvett; Jackson street, from South Third to Garfield; and Garfield avenue will be included in the revamped schedule, although this is not certain. It is the individual opinion of the members of the board that these streets should be improved as conditions warrant the work. In addition, it is an assured fact that South Main street, from Main to Sharon, will be paved with brick.

Jackman street and Garfield avenue have been listed for asphalt macadam. The surface of the latter street, from North Bluff street have not been decided upon.

Postpone Other Improvements. The remainder of the work, together with a second ward grading proposition and hundreds of yards of contemplated property improvement by cement curbing and gutters, is to be postponed for one year.

Although the board has the jurisdiction to reject the bids for the streets to be paved with brick and to advertise for new bids, which would result in a better proposition, they have determined that brick is unusually high and the cost altogether out of proportion to property values affected.

POLICE PATROLMAN OUSTED FROM FORCE

Officer Charles Harmon Falls Second Time and Chief's Recommendation is Substantiated.

Recommendations of Chief of Police P. D. Champion to the board of fire and police commissioners Saturday afternoon resulted in the discharge from the police department of Charles Harmon, for two years a city patrolman. Although the police head some of the reasons for the discharge, it is announced at the city hall that Harmon was intoxicated while on duty Thursday, while patrolling the south side on the occasion of George Champion's weekly day of leave.

Harmon now has no recourse to obtain his position again, as he was discharged for a similar offense. His return to the department following the first incident was of the nature of an opportunity to make good.

Harmon is an excellent officer and always attending to his duties when sober. Harmon's second offense last week counteracts all his good points as a patrolman.

With this vacancy the civil service examination will have to be given shortly as the patrolman eligibility list is exhausted. It is most probable that a special officer will be appointed for the time being.

A week from this afternoon the board of fire and police commissioners will hold their regular meeting. Reorganization of the body is scheduled for this time. It is also planned to set the dates for civil service tests for patrolmen as well as for employees of the fire department.

WEST SIDE BLOCK DAMAGED BY FIRE

Stores and Stocks in Carle Building Extensively Damaged by Blaze.

Sunday Morning. Losses which will aggregate several thousand dollars to owners of stocks and stores in the West Side Carle block and fire damage to the building itself occurred about 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning when a blaze, originating in a small room on the second floor and used for storing janitor's supplies for a while threatened the destruction of the structure. The fire was discovered in its incipient stage and rapid work on the part of the departments was successful in the loss being held as low as it was. At that time, however, the 1917 loss for four months was boosted to triple the entire damages sustained in the city from conflagration throughout the year of 1916.

N. L. Carle yesterday was unable to place an estimate of his damages. He plans to make immediate repairs. The Morris millinery shop on the ground floor and the post card agency of F. M. Palmer, upstairs, were the worst to suffer. The blaze originated in the closet next to the rooms occupied by Mr. Palmer.

His supplies were badly damaged by smoke and water and are practically a total loss. This morning he went to Chicago to order supplies so as to continue his business.

Further down and across the hall are the quarters of the Lakota Club. Water thrown from streams in the hall broke large inside windows flooding the lounging room and causing damage to rugs and furniture and causing almost total loss of an expensive piano. Several valuable string instruments were ruined.

Water, seeping through the floor from the leak, caused damage to the Roach pool and billiard hall and the Sherer drug store.

The blaze was discovered by Charles Abbe, janitor, when he went to his supply rooms preparatory for morning's work in the building. As he opened the door he was thrown backward by an outburst of flame which engulfed his clothes, burning off rubberized cravat.

When the departments arrived smoke was issuing from every window in the building. The clouds were so heavy that it was some time before the seat of the trouble was encountered. By this time woodwork along the hall leading from the closet, and also along another hall parallel to Franklin street and meeting the other at right angles, was ablaze.

Conditions were ideal for a spectacular blaze and but for the quick work of the departments the flames would have attacked the third story from two far separated corners. After fifteen minutes of work the Springfield department was called.

Chief Henry C. Klein, deciding to bring down and meeting the other at right angles, was ablaze.

Crow Quills Make the Best Pens. A quill penman says that no pen will do as true writing as the crow quill. It requires the assistance of a microscope to make a proper pen out of such a quill, but when made it is of wonderful delicacy. The microscopic writing told of in books of literary curiosities was all done with a crow quill. The steel pens of the present have very fine points, but somehow a finer point can be given to a quill than has ever been put on a steel pen, and for delicacy nothing can equal it.

HAVE YOU ENLISTED IN NATION'S ARMY OF FOOD PRODUCERS?

If Not It's Time to Get Busy and Do Your Bit—Garden Planting Time is Already Well Advanced.

(By Allen B. West.)
High prices tell us that food is becoming scarce.

Have you enlisted in the army of food producers? If not, now is your opportunity.

Gov. Philipp says that every foot of ground on our farms should be tilled. This means that our farmers will need help. Will you volunteer to go out on the farm? If so, telephone to the secretary of the Commercial club, Mr. Kuhn, or J. J. Cunningham, postmaster.

Have you planted a garden? If not, it is because you have not a suitable lot. If so, telephone at once to the mayor and he will assign one to you.

If you are the head of a family with children that can help you, telephone to the high school, Rock county phone 84, or Wisconsin phone 424.

There are lots in the various parts of the city that may be had by school pupils or by their parents for the asking. It takes time to make the assignments of these vacant lots to the family gardeners, but the instructor of agriculture in the high school and his sixteen junior and senior assistants are willing servants of the people and are on the job early and late.

Autos have been loaned so as to conserve time and strength. Have you an auto that could now and then be enlisted for an hour or two? Have you a runabout that you are not using? Here is an opportunity to make it count on the food supply of the city.

If you are still in doubt how you can enlist in the army of food producers, telephone the high school and the writer will be awake nights until he can find something for you to do.

Surplus articles about the house may easily be turned into cash by telling the people through the want ad columns.

AMUSEMENTS

MYERS THEATRE.

William Elliott, F. Ray Comstock and Morris East have completed arrangements with Manager Bransky of the Myers to present at that theatre for one night "Experience," George V. Hobart's modern morality comedy drama of today. This will be the first presentation of "Experience" in this city. The play comes here direct from remarkable runs of nine months in New York, five months in Boston and seven in Chicago. In these cities the success of "Experience" was so great that it was necessary to give breakfast matinees in order to accommodate the thousands of people who wished to see this play.

In all of these cities "Experience" received a cordial endorsement of the clergy representing all denominations. In ten brilliant scenes "Experience" tells the love story of youth and the temptations he meets when he goes out to make a name for himself in the world. The play opens showing youth called away from his home and his sweetheart, love, by ambition. Youth meets and mingles with all the temptations that inevitably surround the young.

Youth wastes his time and money with intoxication, passion and other bad habits and finally drifts lower and lower in the world. He is at last only saved from crime by the miracle of a Mother's love.

The stage settings of "Experience" are elaborate and spectacular. The costumes are the very latest achievements in sartorial art and the incidental music in the play is said by the critics to be very delightful. The variety of attractions "Experience" presents appeals to everyone, the dramatic writers say no matter whether it is an evening's entertainment, a fashion show, or an intensely human drama.

In the cast of notable players will be Conrad Nagel, Louise Gerard, Maude Fursess, Edwin Elton, Edna Penton, Peggy Ford, Duncan Penwarden, Lillie Leslie, Adele Brandt, Holt, Harriet Gustin, Guy Collins, Lillian Armstrong, Dan Van Charles, Chilton Paulkner, William Benius, Irene Palmer, Edward Van Vleet, Joseph Weber, Peggy O'Keefe, Louise Everett, Betty Burche, Margaret Browning, Harold Burnett.

A Word to the Public

FROM MR. JOSEPH M. BRANSKY

This is the most important theatrical announcement I have ever made during my career as a manager in this city.

I have just contracted with Messrs. William Elliott, F. Ray Comstock and Morris East to bring their magnificent production of "Experience," the most wonderful play in America, to Janesville for one night, Thursday night, May 10.

"Experience" is without doubt, the greatest success of this day and generation. It ran for nine months in New York, five months in Boston, seven months in Chicago and five months in Philadelphia. In every community where "Experience" is presented it always receives the enthusiastic endorsement of the clergy of all creeds and denominations.

"Experience" is a modern morality comedy drama by George V. Hobart, telling in ten vivid and powerful scenes the temptation confronting youth—the average young man—going forth into the world to seek fame and fortune. "Experience" is properly called "The most wonderful play in America."

I know of my own knowledge that this play has been a sensation elsewhere. I am sure it will arouse enormous interest here. It is the biggest show in the next ten years. I am proud and happy to be able to bring "Experience" to the Janesville of this city, and am especially glad to announce that the famous New York-Boston "Experience" organization, consisting of a cast of 25 and a staff of 25, are here direct from nine months in New York and five months in Boston, and is considered by the critics the greatest "Experience" company ever assembled. Remember, "Experience" is not a moving picture, but the successful spoken comedy-drama of this generation.

JOSEPH M. BRANSKY, Manager Myers Theatre.

ARGUMENT FOR GOOD ROADS

Most arguments for road improvements as an aid in transporting farm products are based on hauling grain, cotton, timber and other heavy materials, says the American Highway association.

There is another class which is important in some sections to which attention was recently drawn by Fred W. Davis, commissioner of agriculture of Texas. This is the class of perishable products which it is very important to deliver in good condition at the shipping station.

Many shipments have been rejected by consignees for bad condition, started while hauling. Such rejections are usually ascribed to the crookedness of the commission merchant, but Mr. Davis says he has observed tomatoes and other produce loaded into cars in such a damaged condition that they could not possibly be accepted at their destination. As a remedy in a poor roads district many farmers try their wares with springs, which reduce their capacity, and in this way incur an expense to overcome the bad conditions which would go far toward paying the taxes needed for good roads.

WAR FILM INCITES MOB
War films have just been banned in Pennsylvania by the state censors. Any film showing the horrors of war in a vivid manner is taboo. It is believed these pictures would deter people from enlisting in productions like "Civilization," "The Birth of a Nation," "The Fall of a Nation," "Womanhood," "War Brides" and "Patria" probably will be the first to go.

Most war pictures depict Germans, thinly disguised, invading this country. This is held, also, incites bad feeling. In Pittsburgh a theatre manager distributing handbills advertising "The Battle Cry of Peace" was reported nearly killed by a mob.

FEDERAL AID FOR ROADS.
Nearly 5,000,000 Square Yards Surveyed in Last Fiscal Year.

Nearly 5,000,000 square yards of roadway, the equivalent of 561.5 miles of road fifteen feet wide, were constructed under the supervision of federal road specialists in the last fiscal year, according to the annual report of the office of public roads and rural engineering of the United States department of agriculture. This is more than double the mileage so constructed in previous years. The roads constructed under supervision of the office include experimental roads, post roads, county roads and roads in national parks and forests. The expenditures of the office for this purpose were chiefly for engineering services and supervision, the communities, except in the case of forest and park roads, meeting the bulk of the costs for material and construction.

A special appropriation was made for the construction of the post roads in the postoffice appropriation bill of 1912. Eight of the eleven post road projects remaining at the beginning of the last fiscal year were completed by the end of the year, bringing the mileage of the completed roads under this special project to 607.6. Three of the original seventeen projects, aggregating 59.17 miles in length, remained uncompleted at the end of the year. The eight projects completed are in seven states and traverse fifteen counties.

The demonstration maintenance work undertaken in 1914 on a through route from Washington to Atlanta was continued during the year, the mileage under supervision increasing from 724 to 870. The cumulative effect of continuous maintenance, says the report, has been demonstrated by the fact that from March 15 to the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1916, the road was not closed to traffic at any point.

In the national parks and national forests the office supervised construction of approximately 170 miles of road, of which about seventy miles were completed. One of the roads under construction—the Escalante-Winder road in the Powell national forest, Utah—will open up communication with a settlement in the valley of the upper Colorado river which has heretofore been practically cut off from the rest of the world.

INCREASE IN ROAD BUILDING.
Expenditure on Highways Shows 250 Per Cent Gain in Decade.

An enormous increase in the total expenditures for road building and bridge construction marked the development of highway work in the United States during the past twelve years. Statistics compiled by the office of public roads show that the expenditures for this work increased from approximately $30,000,000 a year in 1904 to about $282,000,000 in 1915, or more than 250 per cent. State expenditures increased from $2,500,000 to more than $58,000,000. In addition, more than $27,000,000 of local funds were spent under state supervision in 1915, bringing the total road and bridge expenditures managed by the states to $80,514,000.

The rapid growth in importance of state highway departments is shown by the report. Since 1891, when New Jersey established the first of these agencies, every state except Indiana, South Carolina and Texas now has some form of highway department. The falling off in value of road work performed by statute and convict labor was from 25 per cent of the total in 1904 to less than 5½ per cent of the total in 1915.

Road Building in Peru.

The government of Peru has adopted a scheme of road building to apply to all parts of the republic. Projected roads are classified in four groups—national, departmental, provincial and district. The national government is to have charge of the construction and maintenance of the national roads, which will be those between the principal points of the republic. Other roads will be in charge of departmental, provincial and district authorities. A staff of road engineers will be organized and provided for in the annual budget.

PREMIER OF BAVARIA TO CONFERENCE AT VIENNA

Violet Mersereau, who boasts of twenty summers has spent more than half of her young life on the stage and in moving pictures. She was nine years old when her father died, leaving her mother almost penniless with three children, two girls and a son. So many of her friends advised placing the two little girls on the stage that it was finally decided to try them in that profession.

That was the beginning of little Violet's career. She played in stock and became a member of the Margaret Anglin and Maxine Elliott companies, and later played an important role in "The Clansman." However, her big triumph came when she played "Rebecca" in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

Miss Mersereau entered the field of the movies about six years ago, playing leading roles. Her next picture will be "Little Miss Nobody," which will be released in May.

Flo Ziegfeld, it is rumored, has wired Mack Sennett, asking for some girls for his next revue. Sennett, according to the rumor, is going to try to favor him, but can't find a beauty in the lot who is willing to go into a New York merry.

It is said that the coronation robe worn by Raymond Hatton as the king of France in "Joan the Woman" is trimmed with real ermine and is an exact replica of the original robe. It is valued at $3,500. Also we are told that the suit of armor worn by Hobart Bosworth as Gen. La Hire and the steel mail carried on his larger weighs nearly 500 pounds.

A Persian Bridge Story.
There are few rivers in Persia, and not many of these are bridged. Years ago a wealthy man built a bridge over a stream near the capital city, and then, thinking that this should have been done by the shah, she pronounced a curse upon any king who should ever cross the bridge. It is said that no Persian ruler has ever had the hardihood to venture upon it, and it is said there is not money enough in the kingdom to hire one to do so.—Los Angeles Times.

The Macgregors.
The Macgregors were forbidden to use their family name in 1603. The proscription was removed by Charles II, only to be indicted again in the reign of William and Mary. It was not till 1822 that a royal license to use the name was granted to Sir Charles Macgregor, up to then known as "Macray." In the early years of the seventeenth century every man's hand was raised against this persecuted race, and they could be mutilated and slain with impunity.—London Spectator.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl twenty-three years old. A few years ago I met with a young man and I learned to love him. I made the mistake of showing that I cared too much for him. He was very kind and I was very jealous, although I tried hard not to be. He did not like these girls as well as he did me and in my heart I knew he did not, but that did not make any difference with my jealousy. Finally he and I did not get along very well together and he stopped coming to see me. I wrote and asked for his advice and you said I should give up all thoughts of him. You said that nothing I could do would make him want to come back unless it would be my indifference. I did what you said and tried to stop thinking of him. I have gone with other boys since, but I have never cared for any of them as much as I did this boy. Today I got a letter from him and he has asked to come back. He says that he has never liked anyone else as well as he liked me and he knows that it was his fault that we did not get along together toward the end. I don't know how it was his fault, but I wouldn't tell him so.

Now I want your advice again. Should I let him come back? I will not show him again how much I care for him. I don't think I ever got over caring, because now when I think that he is coming back, perhaps, I want to sing and I love every body. I am waiting for your advice before I give him my answer.

(BESS.)
Let him come back. I am glad that things have turned out so happily for you.
Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am fourteen years old. I used to go with a neighbor boy and he thought quite a lot of each other. He is two years older than I am. Six months ago he went to the city to work where his sister does, and he began going with several months. Would it be all right for me to write him just a friendly letter, as he has gone further away now? It seems as though I cannot forget him.
BROKEN HEARTED DIMPLES
The boy knows your address and will write to you if he cares to. You are too young to think much about any boy. Make up your mind that he has passed out of your life, and find new interests. You should not write him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I want with a fellow and I refused to let him kiss me and he said if he could not kiss me right away. And so I think you are wrong in kissing matters. Girls are chumps to listen to you.

(SUNSHINE.)
Doubtless many of my readers will think that some of the letters I print on the kissing question are not only silly but also notice which want to come back unless it would be my indifference. I did what you said and tried to stop thinking of him. I have gone with other boys since, but I have never cared for any of them as much as I did this boy. (BESS.)
Let him come back. I am glad that things have turned out so happily for you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am fourteen years old. I used to go with a neighbor boy and he thought quite a lot of each other. He is two years older than I am. Six months ago he went to the city to work where his sister does, and he began going with several months. Would it be all right for me to write him just a friendly letter, as he has gone further away now? It seems as though I cannot forget him.

BROKEN HEARTED DIMPLES
The boy knows your address and will write to you if he cares to. You are too young to think much about any boy. Make up your mind that he has passed out of your life, and find new interests. You should not write him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I want with a fellow and I refused to let him kiss me and he said if he could not kiss me right away. And so I think you are wrong in kissing matters. Girls are chumps to listen to you.

(SUNSHINE.)
Doubtless many of my readers will think that some of the letters I print on the kissing question are not only silly but also notice which want to come back unless it would be my indifference. I did what you said and tried to stop thinking of him. I have gone with other boys since, but I have never cared for any of them as much as I did this boy. Today I got a letter from him and he has asked to come back. He says that he has never liked anyone else as well as he liked me and he knows that it was his fault that we did not get along together toward the end. I don't know how it was his fault, but I wouldn't tell him so.

Now I want your advice again. Should I let him come back? I will not show him again how much I care for him. I don't think I ever got over caring, because now when I think that he is coming back, perhaps, I want to sing and I love every body. I am waiting for your advice before I give him my answer.

You dear little homemaker, not every man is like you. Patty has a gift for friendship. It is a real talent. She makes men her friends instead of her lovers, so she keeps them all. She would not trade with you, I am thinking.

SEEK EARLIER DATE FOR SUFFRAGE VOTE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., April 30.—It is probable that the senate will be made by the senate to restore the woman's suffrage bill to its original form providing for a referendum in the fall election of 1918.

The bill passed the senate, it provided for a submission of this question to a vote of the people at the general election in 1918. An amendment offered by Assemblyman John C. Goppo of Ashland, was incorporated in the house providing that the question be submitted at the spring election in 1917. With this amendment incorporated in the bill, it went to engrossment and no motion for reconsideration was offered in the house so the indications are that the anti-suffrage people do not expect to put up a further fight against the measure.

There are many people, however, who believe that the fall election should be submitted at the fall election and it is probable that when the bill returns to the senate it will be amended form that the senate may ask for a compromise on compromise to see if the matter can be arranged. The suffrage people admit, however, that they will take the bill even in amended form, rather than to have the measure defeated at this session and go all over the ground again at the 1919 session of the legislature.

Even if the bill is approved in its present form, the submission of the question at the spring election in 1917 the question will necessarily be fought out again at the next session of the legislature which convenes in 1917. The anti-suffrage people would have an opportunity to put in a repeat bill and the friends of suffrage would have an opportunity to put in an amendment providing for a fall election on the question.

Household Hints

SOME GOOD CAKES

Brown Eggless Cake.—One cup granulated sugar, two rounded tablespoons butter, one-half cup chocolate dissolved in a little hot water, one cup flour, one-half cup milk, one-half cup soda, one-half cup baking powder, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup molasses, two teaspoons shortening, one teaspoon ginger, cinnamon, allspice and soda, one cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half cup milk. Scald spice in one-half cup hot water. Mix sugar, soda, eggs and shortening, spices, soda, eggs and soda. Add baking powder sifted in with flour; lastly, add egg whites well beaten. Bake about twenty minutes in moderate oven on a layer cake pan. This makes three layers. If desired add vanilla. Spice icing: Two cups confectioner's sugar, one tablespoon (level) cinnamon, one water, one to make a paste (usually from three to five tablespoons). Mix sugar and spice, add water, stir until smooth. This is good, and will not fail to harden unless too much liquid is added. Spread between layers and on top of cake. This is also an original way to keep a cake fresh for an indefinite time. When icing on cake is hard, use a clean milk or paper cup over it, then cover with a large crock.

Spanish Chocolate Cake.—Dissolve on back of stove half cup chocolate in one cup boiling water. Add one cup granulated sugar and two tablespoons milk. Beat to a cream one-third cup butter and cup of powdered sugar. Add two eggs (one at a time, beat well); add half teaspoon vanilla. Next add the dissolved mixture and beat thoroughly. Now add gradually one-fourth cup milk, one cup flour and teaspoon of baking powder. (add that last).

Devil's Food Cake.—Grate into a dish one-quarter cake of chocolate, add half cup boiling water, let stand until the chocolate is melted. Add one part of cake is mixed. Take two cups brown sugar, one-half cup butter, half cup sour milk, two and one-half cups flour. Pour into the chocolate mixture and bake in layers.

Ginger Cakes.—One cup brown sugar, one cup lard (creamed with sugar), one tablespoon soda in two cups molasses, three tablespoons ginger, four eggs, pinch salt. Stir in flour until thick enough to roll out in cakes and bake.

Buttermilk Cake.—One and one-half cups brown sugar, one-half cup butter, one cup buttermilk, two and one-half cups flour, one-half cup chopped raisins, one teaspoon cinnamon, cloves and allspice, two level teaspoons soda.

One-Egg Cake.—One tablespoon butter, three-fourths cup sugar, one-half cup milk, one cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon flavoring. Cream sugar and butter, add milk and flour, beat well, add egg and beat all night. Lastly, add two small layers. Can spice one and put together with any desired filling or a boiled icing, rice, nuts or raisins, cake with nuts or spices or both. Now for a pudding with any sauce.

Chocolate Icing (eggless).—Two squares chocolate dissolved in one cup milk; stir constantly, remove from heat and add two cups of pulverized sugar. This will ice two dozen cookies or a cake, and may be kept, if not used at one time, by reheating in double boiler.

INTERIOR CUTS ARE MORE TENDER BY FAR.

In a study of factors which influence tenderness, Lehmann and his associates measured experimentally the relative tenderness of raw meat of different kinds and cuts in old and young animals and the effect of changing and freezing upon tenderness, and also the effects of cooking.

According to his summary the toughness or tenderness of the toughness of meat fibers is a matter of the location of the cut, and his measurements showed that the raw fibers from an exterior cut (back cut) are almost twice as hard times as tough as those from an interior cut (tenderloin).

Congenital Hip Disease.

Five in each thousand girls and one in each thousand boys are born with dislocated hip. We do not know what causes this. We only know that the socket of the hip bone is shallow and not fully developed, and the head of the thigh bone poorly developed.

The mother may notice that the child favors one leg, when creeping, or that the child begins to walk, then limp is apparent. Sometimes the dislocation is double, and the child waddles. When both hips are dislocated the child's back shows an exaggerated deep hollow.

Children with congenital hip disease are inclined to be slow at walking along in the second year, as a rule. They prefer to creep.

The earlier the condition is detected the better the result of treatment will be. Therefore, when the baby seems to have any trouble with one or both legs or feet—parents and short-cut heaters often imagine the child has weak ankle or club foot or infantile paralysis and so maltreat the trouble—the proper care is to have the family physician examine the child, or an expert in the treatment of hip disease.

clothing of a child cannot be thorough unless the clothing is removed, especially when any developmental condition is concerned.

The bloodless Lorenz operation is now generally used for the cure of congenital hip disease. The child is anesthetized and the bone of the thigh is removed, and the bone is replaced in the shallow socket. A plaster cast is then applied to hold the joint in place, with the thigh drawn well up and turned outward at a sharp angle from three to six months. It may be arranged so the child can walk about with the aid of a special contrivance, but this is worn for many months, sometimes eight or ten months. It is finally removed, and the hip remains in place. Nature has developed a better socket than the artificial one.

After the removal of the final cast, a series of gymnastic exercises may be necessary to develop the muscles of the hip and leg so long out of use.

Also support around the hips may be necessary for a time. When the child begins to walk, the sound leg may be raised by a thick-soled shoe, in order to insure the maintenance of a good position in the affected leg.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

What causes bronchitis? Does the cough last long time? Is there greater danger of developing consumption after an attack? What can be done to cure a child of bronchitis? (C. V.)

Answer.—Infection by various bacteria, such as the pneumococcus (pneumonia or cold germ), streptococcus (diphtheria and scarlet fever) (both inflammation and pus-producing germs), occasionally the tubercle bacillus. The cough lasts two or three weeks in acute bronchitis as a rule. There is no more danger of developing consumption than after any other illness. Certain cases of bronchitis or tuberculosis are mistaken for bronchitis at first, through failure to have a proper chest examination—which of course implies examination of the lungs by a physician. In young children the most effective remedy for bronchitis is cool air and sunlight—or, in other words, the open air life. Unfortunately most people and a few doctors still prefer the retreating influence of indoor life and lack of sunlight, being obsessed by the catching cold delusion.

Ether and Chloroform render one unconscious? Can one recall afterward how such an occurrence came about? Is ether safe to perform as an anesthetic? (W. E. H.)

Answer.—No, it takes a great many whiffs of chloroform to produce unconsciousness. A professional anesthetist brings gradual sleep with ether. Any one of normal mentality can recall every detail of the occurrence of chloroform or ether anesthesia. Chloroform is safer than ether for certain cases, as in children, in colds, and a few doctors still prefer chloroform to ether for surgical work in this country, not abroad.

SIDE TALKS

DEFERRED ENJOYMENT.

All life is full of conflicts. We want to be good and we want to be bad at the same moment. We want to be happy and we want to be unhappy. We want to be cultured and educated, yet we aren't willing to make the requisite effort. We would not play false and yet would wound with our words. We want to spend our money and we want to save it.

And in the case of the average human being, I don't believe there is any conflict that is more constant, more insistent or more fiercely than that of the desire for deferred enjoyment.

Miserliness is the rarest sin I know.

A Sin We Might Well Try To Avoid.

Most of us could try our hardest to sin in that direction with advantage.

There are always so many easily justifiable ways of spending money.

Good looking, becoming clothes are a justifiable expenditure—"personal publicity," you know. Only the rich can afford to be so badly advised.

Or save an attractive home—what's the use of living if you can't have your surroundings reasonably attractive?

And then there are books and magazines and theatres and good music—these, too, are duties we owe ourselves.

Of course we must have vacations. And we must have vacations or we can't work efficiently.

And so it goes.

(Miss Hoyt will answer personally all letters pertaining to matters of etiquette addressed to her in care of this paper, if accompanied by a two cent stamp.)

As a mark of respect to older people, one may say: "No, Mother or No, Father," instead of: "No, Sir" or "No, Ma'am."

Jimmy: There is something to be said in favor of certain slang phrases in common use in America, as you say. Here and there we find one that aptly signifies an idea for which we cannot find any other suitable expression and which therefore is rapidly gaining a fixed place in our language. However most colloquialisms are crude and vulgar, and they should be avoided, as a rule. There are times when crisp, idiomatic wording seems to fit the theme but not often.

Alice: I think your argument is defective. You do not need to laugh constantly in order to appear vivacious. Loud laughter, or much laughter, is objectionable, and in bad taste. Very few people either laugh well or sound well when they laugh.

WHATCHAMA-COLUMN.

Suspenders.

Suspenders used to be worn by men in such a way that his self-respect was in direct ratio to the number of trouser buttons he had attached to them. If he had but seven buttons he was all right. But if he only had seven buttons and a nail he wasn't very respectable. Or if he was wasn't married. Or if he was much about him. Which amounts to the same thing.

But these were the days before it became fashionable for the average man to bulge in the middle. Since then we have abandoned suspenders, hung our trousers on the top of our trousers, and with a belt and let it go at that.

Mother—Water, how often have I told you to stop before fighting and count ten? Your face is a sight!

Sonny—That's what I did, but Jimmie Bates' mother only told him to count five!
